CONVERGENCE CT (CCT), a global health informatics company, focuses on improving research on quality, outcomes and cost by harnessing the power of real-world data. We foster research and collaborations among providers, researchers, life sciences, and payers while generating new revenue opportunities for providers. Stakeholders across the healthcare ecosystem seek innovations to enhance value and improve outcomes. Providers generate increasing amounts of data, which often cannot be easily or securely accessed for education and research. Life sciences are seeking real-world, de-identified data to inform activities such as health economics and outcomes research, medical affairs, commercial strategies, and value analyses. Payers benefit from real-world, de-identified data to enrich value-oriented activities such as risk assessment, predictive modeling, and contract design. CCT's Global Healthcare Data Network™ provides rapid, cost-effective access to comprehensive real-world, fully de-identified data through our secure, federated query system that eliminates source data being exported outside the firewalls of provider organizations.
