

Keynote Speaker Stephanie Call, MD, is the Internal Medicine Residency Program Director of the new Internal Medicine Training Program at Winchester Medical Center in Winchester, VA, a program she is proud to build to serve the Shenandoah Valley community. She is a nationally recognized educator, recently receiving the national Associate of Program Directors in Internal Medicine Distinguished Medical Educator Award. She was also a recipient of the Parker J. Palmer Courage to Teach Award and was recognized by Working Mothers Magazine with the Working Mother of the Year Award. Dr. Call is a graduate of the University of Maryland School of Medicine and completed residency training in Internal Medicine at the University of Alabama Medical Center.

Catherine Apaloo, MD, is the Senior Vice President and Chief IMG Experience Officer at Intealth and Adjunct Clinical Professor of Medicine at the University of Georgia School of Medicine. She previously served as Program Director and Designated Institutional Official at Piedmont Athens Regional. A passionate educator and mentor, Dr. Apaloo has led national faculty development initiatives and held leadership roles in APDIM, AAIM, and ACP, including serving as President of APDIM and Chair of the ACP Georgia IMG Committee. Dr. Apaloo is a graduate of the University of Ghana Medical School and completed residency training in Internal Medicine at Good Samaritan Hospital in Baltimore.

Janice Bianco is Senior Manager, Visa & Immigration Services at the Cleveland Clinic Foundation. She has 36 years' experience in international medical education and international scholar advising. She previously served as Manager, Exchange Visitor Program at the Educational Commission for Foreign Medical Graduates (ECFMG). Ms. Bianco earned a Master of Arts degree in Social and Behavioral Sciences (focus on the immigrant experience, diversity and cultural anthropology) from Stony Brook University and has a certificate in Immigration Law from Cornell University School of Law.

Jake Bidwell, MD, is the Designated Institutional Official and Vice President for Academic Affairs at Aurora Health Care. He also serves as Regional Associate Dean for the University of Wisconsin School of Medicine and Public Health. His professional interests include urban underserved primary care and leadership development. Dr. Bidwell is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin Medical School and completed residency training in Family Medicine at Aurora Health Care.

James Campbell, MD, is President of the Institute for Academic Medicine at Charleston Area Medical Center (CAMC) and Clinical Associate Professor, Department of Medical Education, West Virginia University. He has received numerous honors, including Distinguished Service Award, CAMC Department of Internal Medicine as well as induction into The Gold Humanism Honor Society. Dr. Campbell is a graduate of the John C. Edwards School of Medicine at Marshall University and completed residency training in Internal Medicine at West Virginia University – Charleston.

Jennifer "JJ" Carmody, is System Director for Health Policy and Government Relations at Billings Clinic-Logan Health. She has been with Billings Clinic for nearly 30 years and through her leadership has strengthened relationships with state and federal legislative and administrative staff. She regularly analyzes financial information to produce forecasts of business, industry, and economic conditions for use in making service line decisions. Ms. Carmody earned a Bachelor of Science degree – emphasis in Accounting from Montana State University.

Suzette Surratt Caudle, MD, is the Designated Institutional Official at Atrium Health's Carolinas Medical Center and maintains board certification as a general pediatrician through the American Board of Pediatrics. Over the course of her career, Dr Caudle has built a foundation in educational administrative leadership, with an emphasis on graduate medical education. Dr. Caudle is a graduate of the University of South Carolina School of Medicine and completed residency training in Pediatrics at Charlotte Memorial Hospital (now Carolinas Medical Center).

Virginia Chandlee, PhD, RN, is Manager of Clinical Experience at JPS Hospital, a role she has held for fifteen years. Dr. Chandlee leads a team of coordinators and clinical instructors who oversee all student programs for the network. She also serves as an Adjunct Professor of Nursing at Tarrant County College. Dr. Chandlee earned her Doctor of Philosophy in Nursing Research at the University of Texas in Galveston.

Leah Delfinado, MD, FACOG, is the Designated Institutional Official for Advocate Health Care in Illinois. She served as Associate Program Director for Advocate Health's Obstetrics and Gynecology Residency program beginning in 2012 and Residency Program Director from 2014-2024. Her focused areas of interest include graduate medical education, mentoring and professional coaching, and LGBTQ+ care. Dr. Delfinado is a graduate of Southern Illinois University's School of Medicine and completed residency training in OB-Gyn at Advocate Illinois Masonic Medical Center.

Caroline Diez, EdD, is the Director of Graduate Medical Education at John Peter Smith (JPS) Health Network. Prior to joining JPS in 2019, she served as Program Coordinator, Transitional Year, at Grand Strand Medical Center. Dr. Diez is a graduate of the College of Charleston where she earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in Corporate and Organizational Communications. She recently completed doctoral studies at Creighton University in Interdisciplinary Leadership.

Tricia Elliott, MD, is Sr. VP, Academic and Research Affairs, CAO, and DIO at JPS Health Network. She also serves as Professor in Family Medicine at Texas Christian University. Dr. Elliott has over 20 years of GME experience, including nationally recognized work with the ACGME Family Medicine Milestones group. She is a graduate of the University of Texas Medical Branch and completed residency training in Family Medicine at Albert Einstein/Montefiore Medical Center Residency Program in Social Medicine.

Lisa Howley, PhD, is the Senior Director for Transforming Medical Education at the Association of American Medical Colleges (AAMC) where she drives advancements in competency-based medical education (CBME) and fosters innovation in teaching and learning. In her current role, Dr. Howley oversees efforts to improve the transition to residency, enhance curricula, and prepare faculty to address the challenges of 21st-century health care. Dr. Howley earned her PhD in Educational Psychology from the University of Virginia

Cindy Kelley, DO, is the Designated Institutional Official and Vice President of Medical Education at Summa Health and is an Assistant Professor of Family Medicine at NEOMED. She also serves as Chair of the Institutional Review Committee (IRC) at ACGME. Dr. Kelley oversees twenty-one ACGME and non-ACGME graduate medical education programs for 300 trainees. Dr. Kelley is a graduate of the Ohio University Heritage College of Osteopathic Medicine and completed residency training in Family Medicine at Summa Akron City Hospital.

Victor Kolade, MD, is Core Faculty, Internal Medicine Residency; Clinical Professor of Medicine & Regional Clerkship Director for Internal Medicine, Geisinger Commonwealth School of Medicine; and Adjunct Clinical Professor in Internal Medicine, Lake Erie College of Osteopathic Medicine. He has served on the AIAMC Board of Directors since 2021 and is currently the Co-Chair of National Initiative X. Dr. Kolade is a graduate of the University of Ibadan College of Medicine and completed residency training in Internal Medicine at Kingsbrook Jewish Medical Center.

Nanette Lacuesta, MD, FAAFP, is the Program Director for GME Inclusion and Belonging at OhioHealth and the Director of the OhioHealth Physician Pathway Scholars Program, a recruitment mentoring program for students who are underrepresented in medicine. In her current role, she directs the inclusion and belonging efforts for OhioHealth's 39 GME programs at five care sites with over 400 residents and fellows, and more than 1200 medical students annually. Dr. Lacuesta is a graduate of the University of Cincinnati College of Medicine and completed residency training in Family Medicine at The Ohio State University Hospital.

Tricia LaFatta, MBA, is the Manager of Graduate Medical Education at Aurora Health Care. She has over fifteen years of experience in medical education, with a strong focus on residency and fellowship program development, workforce planning and recruitment, and human resources in academic medicine. Ms. LaFratta earned a Bachelor's Degree in Business Administration with an emphasis in Human Resources and a Master of Business Administration from the University of Wisconsin – Whitewater.

Will Lehmann, MD, is the Program Director for Family Medicine at Aurora Health Care and Associate Professor, Aurora Family Medicine Residency Program. Dr. Lehmann is a graduate of the University of Louisville School of Medicine and completed residency training in Family Medicine at the University of Utah School of Medicine. He also earned a Master's in Public Health degree from the University of Utah.

Jennifer LeTourneau, DO, MCR, is the Clinical Vice President of Medical Education and a critical care physician at Legacy Health. She has coached, advised, and mentored medical students, residents, fellows, and faculty in clinical skills development, research, and leadership. Dr. LeTourneau is a graduate of Western University of Health Sciences College of Osteopathic Medicine of the Pacific and completed residency training in Internal Medicine at Oregon Health & Science University.

Margaret Lozovatsky, MD, is the Chief Medical Information Officer and Vice President of Digital Health at the American Medical Association. She also serves as a pediatric hospitalist at Novant Health Presbyterian Medical Center in Charlotte, North Carolina, where she continues to care for patients. Dr. Lozovatsky is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin Medical School and completed residency training in Pediatrics at Rush University Medical Center.

Millennium Manna is a third-year medical student at The Ohio State University College of Medicine. She is a member of the Curious Clinicians team, where she serves as podcast producer. Throughout medical school, she has served as president of PODEMOS and vice president of LIGHT, both global health student organizations at Ohio State. Additionally, she served as vice president of her school's CMDA chapter and as the SNMA Admissions Chair.

Theodore "Ted" O'Connell, MD, is the Director of Medical Education for Kaiser Permanente Northern California and an Associate Clinical Professor in the Department of Family and Community Medicine at the UC San Francisco School of Medicine. He has authored over 20 medical textbooks, edited 10 additional textbooks, written over 900 textbook chapters, and is a member of the AIAMC Programming Committee. Dr. O'Connell earned his MD degree from the University of California Los Angeles and completed resident training in Family Medicine at Santa Monica-UCLA Medical Center.

Kari Oliver, MD, is a Clinical Adjunct Assistant Professor in the Department of Obstetrics-Gynecology at Aurora UW Medical Group. She also serves on the Gyn-Surgery Quality Council for Advocate Aurora Health. Dr. Oliver is a graduate of the Washington University School of Medicine and completed residency training in Obstetrics and Gynecology at St. Louis University where she also served as Academic Chief Resident.

James "JP" Orlando, EdD, is Associate Dean of Graduate Medical Education at Washington State University Health's College of Medicine. He is also President-Elect of the AIAMC. Prior to moving to Washington in January 2026, Dr. Orlando served for fifteen years as Chief Graduate Medical Education Officer at St. Luke's University Health Network. He earned his Doctor of Education in Corporate Learning Leadership from the University of Pennsylvania, Graduate School of Education and the Wharton School, Chief Learning Officer program.

Oluwagbemiga Oyeleye, MBBS, is a third-year Internal Medicine resident at Guthrie/Robert Packer Hospital. He has also served as an academic tutor and mentor for the past five years for the KAINJI Organization. Dr. Oyeleye is a graduate of the University of Lagos College of Medicine.

Sarah Ozurumba is a GME Learner Network Program Manager with the Kern National Network for Flourishing in Health, where she supports learner engagement and cultivates opportunities to integrate the KNN framework for flourishing into graduate medical education. With over 16 years of experience in designing inclusive programs and learning environments in museums and classrooms, Ms. Ozurumba brings a deep commitment to amplifying learner voices and fostering human connection through the arts and humanities through interdisciplinary learning and reflective practices.

Nicole Salvo, MD, is Program Director of the Obstetrics-Gynecology residency program at Aurora Sinai Medical Center. She also serves as Clinical Adjunct Assistant Professor, Aurora Health Care – University of Wisconsin School of Medicine and Public Health. Dr. Salvo earned her Medical Doctor degree from the University of Illinois at Chicago and completed residency training at Aurora Sinai Medical Center.

Deb Simpson, PhD, is the Academic Affairs Education Director for AdvocateAuroraHealth Midwest. She is also an Adjunct Clinical Professor in Family Medicine at the University of Wisconsin School of Medicine and Public Health (UWSMPH) & at the Medical College of Wisconsin (MCW) and a Deputy Editor for the Journal of Graduate Medical Education (JGME). Dr. Simpson earned her doctorate in Educational Psychology from the University of Minnesota

Diana Singer, PhD, RN, is the Executive Director of Academic Affairs at JPS Health Network and Adjunct Faculty at the Harris College of Nursing & Health Sciences at Texas Christian University. She is a Director on the AIAMC Board and serves on the AIAMC Programming Committee. Dr. Singer earned her Doctor of Philosophy degree from Texas Christian University.

Andrew Sy, MD, is an attending physician with the Pediatric Advanced Care Team (PACT) at Nicklaus Children’s Hospital. His clinical interests include utilizing telemedicine as a method to provide quality hospice and palliative care, improving communication with the adolescent and young adult (AYA) population with serious illnesses, medical education in hospice and palliative medicine, and exploring alternative medicines and pathways to treat pediatric pain. Dr. Sy is a graduate of the University of Arizona College of Medicine and completed residency training in Pediatrics at Kaiser Permanente Los Angeles Medical Center.